

Question 1

Question 2

Question 3

Question 4

I will say yes, because an instance of A automatically is an instance of B.

Question 5

This violation will cause inconsistency in the output of the system thereby making other developers debug through their code without knowing the cause of the issue. This will slow down development time.